Gardner Nabs LT Golf Title

Jack Gardner chalked up a 54-hole low net total of 197 to grab first place honors in the Leisure Town Men's Golf Club tournament which concluded Sunday at the LT Country Club course.

Gardner and other tournament leaders received their trophies at a dinner held last night at Vaca Bowl. Wives of members were guests at the awards banquet which was conducted by Bert Butterfield, club president.

Second place low net trophy went to Al Ramos with a 199.

Al Weston fired a 203 to take the third place award. Gardner and Ramos both had nine stroke handicaps while Weston had a 17-stroke advantage in the tournament.

Best scores for the final 18 holes showed Ramos with a low gross of 75, while Harry Wilson came in to the low net of 64.

During last night's dinner, club members met with Frea Blanchard, Leisure Town Country Club professional, to discuss the scheduling of several tournaments which are tentatively set for late May or early June.

Ivaldi Edges Gardner for Blanchard Golf Crown

Fierce Battle For Top Spot

By ART TRIPLETT

Harry Ivaldi of Davis nipped Jack Gardner of Vacaville in a playoff match to win the second annual Fred Blanchard Memorial golf tournament Saturday morning on the Leisure Town course which the late Blanchard helped develop.

Both golfers finished the 18-hole playoff with identical scores of 75, but Ivaldi carried a nine stroke handicap to Gardner's seven to gain a two up average.

In regular tournament play held over two previous weekends, Ivaldi and Gardner tied for first place with 142 for 36 holes to necessitate the playoff.

Saturday's tie-breaker was played under ideal weather conditions, with bright sun and calm breezes gracing the Vacaville golf facility.

FINAL TALLY

Champion Ivaldi's final tally of the scorecard showed him getting a double bogey, four bogeys, 11 pars and two birdies. Gardner had six bogeys, 10 pars and two birdies.

Ivaldi was four over par on the outgoing nine, while Gardner carded a 40. The incoming nine saw Ivaldi shoot a par 34 and Gardner had 35.

Each man got off to a slow start in the playoff round, with Ivaldi firing a double bogey seven and Gardner a bogey six. They matched par on the second hole.

Gardner got his par four on the third hole as Ivaldi had a bogey five. Ivaldi reached the cup in three to par the fourth hole and Gardner penciled in a bogey 4.

It was Ivaldi with a bogey on the fifth hole, but Gardner got a par four. Gardner shot a bogey four on the sixth hole, with Ivaldi getting par three.

FIRES BIRDIE

The Vacaville golfer fired a birdie on the par four seventh, which Ivaldi parred.

Both contenders parred the eighth hole. The ninth hole par five was matched by Ivaldi as Gardner got bogey six to hold a one stroke lead for the initial nine holes.

The linksmen settled down on the incoming nine. Ivaldi got a birdie and Gardner parred the tenth hole. Each matched par on the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth holes.

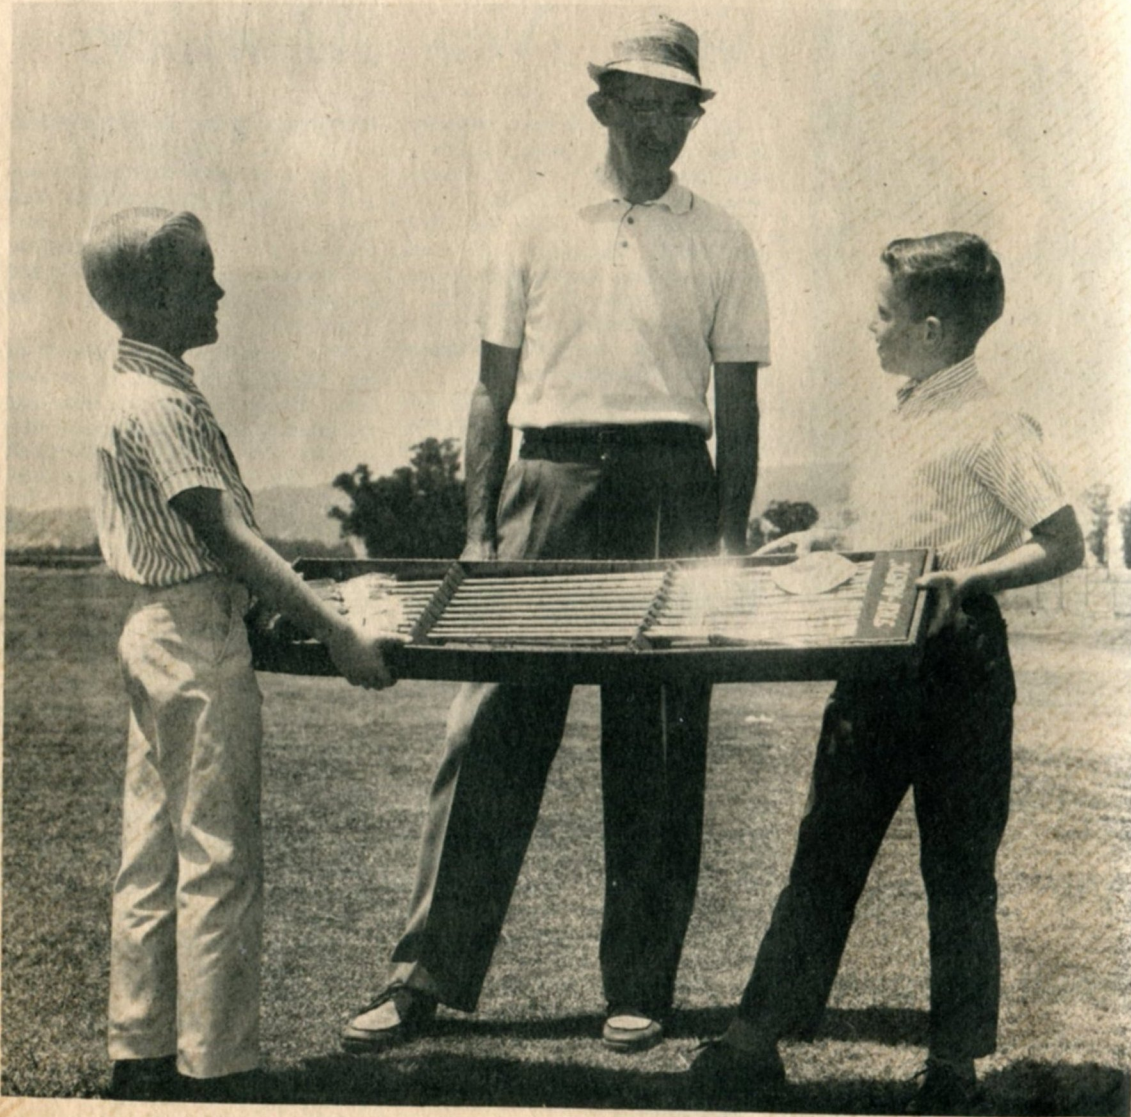

A bogey five went to Ivaldi on the fourteenth and Gardner parred. The fifteenth was parred by Ivaldi, while Gardner had a bogey four. They both shot par on the sixteenth.

RECEIVE AWARDS

Gardner got par three on the seventeenth, with Ivaldi going one over for a bogey.

The match was closed out with Ivaldi shooting par and Gardner getting bogey five.

Children of Fred Blanchard, late professional at Leisure Town, presented the tournament awards. Ivaldi received a set of irons for his victory. Gardner was awarded a set of woods for finishing in second place.

FIRST PLACE prize in the Blanchard Memorial golf tournament goes to Harry Ivaldi of Davis. Making the presentation of a new set of irons on the Leisure Town course are Paul

RUNNER-UP award of a set of woods is presented to Jack Gardner of Vacaville, who placed second in a playoff round of the Fred Blanchard Memorial golf tournament. Sharon VACAVILLE — Dave Heins and Tom LaVrar fired a best-ball 63 Saturday to edge host pro Bob Cox and Glenn Holden by a stroke in the pro challenge golf matches at Green Tree course.

Jack Gardner and Dick Mortimer equalled the 64 of Cox and Holden, who individually shot 70 and 69, respectively, on the par 71 layout.

In at 65 were Keith Kimball and Bill Greig, Rick Clyde and Pat Bellow and Dan Church and Dale Reeves.

In the final round of the club championship, Glenn Adcock and Gardner tied at 222 after 54 holes and will meet in an 18-hole playoff next Saturday. Clyde had 223.

Gardner Shoots Second Ace of Year

PAGE 9—REPORTER, VACAVILLE, CALIFORNIA, THURS., JULY 25, 1974

Avid Golfer Turns Trick On Green Tree's No. Six

Few golfers card a hole-in-one in a lifetime, but Jack Gardner of Vacaville turned the trick for the second time this year when he aced the 97-yard Number Six hole yesterday on the Green Tree course.

Gardner, an avid golfer and a 3-handicapper got his first hole-in-one on Green Tree's 130-yard Number 1 hole in February.

A resident of 102 Birch St., Gardner used a wedge to ace the Number Six hole yesterday. Witnessing the feat were Joe Trevino, Tom Newsom and Leonard Baker. Baker was on the witnessing end of a hole-in-one for the second time in two weeks.

Gardner was as hot as the weather yesterday. Bobby Cox, Green Tree pro, reported Gardner fired a 30 on the front nine, which is five under par. He toured the back nine in 39 for a sizzling 18-hole round of 69, two under par.

"It was just fantastic!" Gardner exclaimed. The little par 3 sixth hole is one where you have to hit blind over a tree. There is water on the right, a sand trap and rough below the hole, a trap behind the hole and a hill off to the left.

"You have to hit the green in order to have a chance. A lot of people cuss this hole because it is short but difficult to reach.

"This is one of the best rounds I ever had. I birdied the next two holes. I have been golfing steadily for 18 years and never really came close before," Gardner concluded.

Gardner, Coleman Top Fiesta Open Golfers

Jack Gardner fired a two under par low gross of 69 and W.B. Coleman carded a 63 net to capture top honors in the second annual Fiesta Open Golf Tournament yesterday at the Green Tree course in Vacaville.

Tying for Calloway flight laurels with scores of 69 net in the 18-hole tourney were Jerry Larson and Hal Mudgett. Paul Blanchard drove, chipped and putted his way to third in Calloway with a 71.

Rick Clyde's round of 72 was good for second in the low gross category, with a 73 by Dick Mortimer copping third. A 65 by Obie Ladd earned a runner-up low net award, with Bill McMullen coming in third with a 67.

Tom Thompson, who took the longest drive trophy, came closest to winning the 1974 Chevrolet Nova donated by Stith Chevrolet. All of the 93 golfers in the field had a chance to win the automobile by firing a hole-in-one on Green Tree's No. 1 hole and Thompson came within 12 inches of the cup.

Handing out the awards during a delicious steak barbecue prepared by Mrs. Rosemary Ettleman of the Green Tree Inn were Jerry Yerby, tourney chairman, and Tom McNunn, registration chairman. They termed the event played in perfect weather a huge success.

Gardner's Amazing Comeback on Links

By Joe Singleton III

Jack Gardner of Vacaville, an avid golfer, made a comeback on the links this year.

And, what a comeback it was! Gardner, who has been playing golf regularly for the past 19 years, had his favorite pastime rudely interrupted a year ago when he had to undergo surgery for abdominal cancer.

Jack has recovered from that surgery. So well, in fact, that he has carded two hole-in-ones on the Green Tree Golf Course here within a span of six months. These are the first two aces he has fired in his many years of chasing the little white ball around courses in California and other states.

The initial hole-in-one was carded on Green Tree's 130-yard Number 1 hole in February. Getting that one made Gardner realize a life-long dream. Few golfers ever turn the trick.

Gardner returned to the Green Tree layout again on July 24, however, and this time he aced the short, but tricky 97-yard Number Six hole.

"My best round at Green Tree has been a four under par 67," said Gardner, 53-year-old lover of the sport. He has had many sub par rounds in competition and his best ever, so far, is a 65 at the Riverview course in Broderick, a suburb of Sacramento.

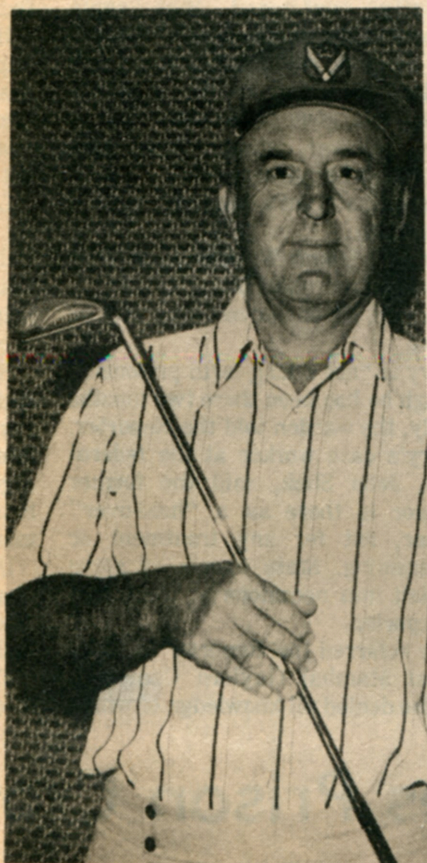

A correctionall sergeant the California Medical Facility, Gardner is a 3-handicapper.

"I qualified and played in the Northern California Amateur at Spyglass Hill," Gardner proudly recalls. He has also played in qualifying rounds for the North section of the State Amateur at the Olympic Club in San Francisco and at the famed Pebble Beach course where the Bing Crosby Open is held.

Gardner captured the California Department of Corrections Golf Tournament at Fresno three consecutive years and has been runner-up on numerous other occasions.

Jack has also been crowned champion of the Vaca Valley Men's Club three times. He was the Northern California representative in All-Church Tournaments from 1964 to 1967 held on alternate years at Salt Lake City and Alpine, Utah.

Residing at 102 Birch St., Gardner plays the Green Tree spread three or four times a week. And, we'll bet that he's out there going after that third hole-in-one.

Med Facility Golfers Enter Tracy Event

Northern California prison employees next weekend take to the links when the Deuel Vocational Institute at Tracy plays host in a four-way golf match to San Quentin, Soledad's Correctional Training Facility and the California Medical Facility.

The match is set for Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Lake Chabot Municipal course in Oakland. Ernest C. Brawley, spokesman for the CMF team, said.

In the last match, hosted by CMF at Leisure Town, the Medical Facility team handily disposed of San Quentin and Soledad, but has not met D.V.I. golfers this year, Brawley said.

Vacaville members include Jack Gardner, L. E. Canady, James Boling, H. A. Danbacher, Father R. C. Rolf, F. W. Oshley, C. G. Townswich, John

Odom, Earl Edson Mathew Scrip, Marx M. May, B. C. Hensley, N. H. Cook, and Brawley.

CMF's golf ladder includes Ray Procnier and Dr. J. A. Henninger of Davis, and Harold Kenworthy and Melvin Boybo-so of Napa.

Also included is Vern Olsen of Vallejo, Jess Warrick of Suisun, J. A. Mathews of Fairfield, and Leo Fiske and Ronald E. Leonard of Sacramento.

There will be prizes for long drive, hole-in-one, low gross, low net, and second place winners, Nat Piscitelli, coordinator and D.V.I. golfer, announced.

The $2.50 admission fee will cover green fees and cost of prizes, he added.

Blanchard Wins Fiesta Golf Tourney

McMullen Cops Low Net Honors, Eiles First in Calloway

Paul Blanchard matched par to cop top honors of the third annual Vacaville Fiesta Days Golf Tournament played Wednesday on Green Tree Golf Course.

Blanchard shot a 71 over the 18 hole, 6400 yard course for the tournament's low gross score. He also won the closest to the tee contest by stopping short of the cup just five feet five inches.

Blanchard was third in last year's event and captured the Ambassador's Invitational last summer.

Bill McMullen captured the low net trophy by shooting a net 64 (82-18), Dick Eiles won the low calloway with a 70 (77 gross).

Jack Gardner followed Blanchard with a 72, Dick Mortimer won the longest drive contest with a 330 yard blast and Al Damiano won the 'Hacker's' award with a 131 score.

Tom Taylor placed second in the handicapped group with an 82-16, 66 score and Dick Lewis Jr. was in with a 74-8, 66. Ken Skewes had an 87 (72) in the Calloway division.

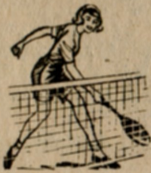

The third annual tournament had a record of 120 entries and unlike the two previous tournaments — was not overwhelmed with high velocity winds.

First Ace After 18 Golf Years

It took 18 years in coming, but golfer Jack Gardner of Vacaville carded his first hole-in-one last Friday on the Green Tree Golf Course.

Using a 7-iron, Gardner aced the 130-yard, par three tenth hole. Witnessing the feat were Len Baker and Bill Miller.

'Cup' Finals

Gardner, Canaday

Vie for Victory

The first "President's Cup" tournament will be over by noon Sunday, when either Lloyd Canaday and Jack Gardner will emerge the winner.

Both men will face six water hazards twice around the nine-hole course. Those will be the par-5 first hole, par-3 fourth hole, par-3 seventh hole, par-4 eighth hole and par-4 ninth hole.

Fred Blanchard, club pro, reports that Gardner and Canaday, employees of the California Medical Facility, can expect the greens to be in their best shape at the 8 a.m. starting time.

Both golfers are expected to play an evenly matched game as Canaday has a 10 handicap going for him against Gardner's 9 for the final 18-hole match play.

Gardner reached the final round by besting Vern Williams last Thursday 1 up. He then had to wait until Sunday to learn of his opponent as Lloyd Canaday took his match 3-2 over Phil Williams.

The winner of Sunday's final contest will have his name engraved on a perpetual plaque which will then adorn a spot on the wall of the pro shop. Two other trophies will be given to the winner and the runner-up at the noon time ceremonies.

Joe Lopez, president of the Leisure Town Men's Golf Club, along with Fred Blanchard, club pro, will present the winner and runner-up with their trophies.

Gardner, Buckner Top Director's Cup Golf

Jack Gardner fired a 71 low gross and Dennis Buckner carded a 78-15—63 net to share top honors in the Vaca Valley Men's Club Director's Cup golf tournament played Saturday on the Green Tree course.

The tourney consisted of a 27-hole sweepstakes, 18 holes on the long and nine on the short course. Gardner and Buckner each received $60 worth of merchandise.

Other leaders and the amounts of merchandise awards they earned were Harry Ivaldi, 73-6—67, $35; Del Reeves, 81-18—63, $35; Rich Lewis, 82-12—69, $35; Ken Hultquist, 77-12—65, $35; Max May, 77-10—67, $5; and Bill Miller, 79-13—66, $5.

A nine-hole sweeps is planned tomorrow (Friday), with tee-off at 6 p.m. Prizes will be given for closest to the pin and in various other categories. Refreshments will be served at a club meeting following the tourney.
